FROM THE DIRECTOR

Welcome to the Inaugural Performance of Lam Dance Works

We are deeply and profoundly grateful for your support in helping to bring our beautiful artists together on this magnificent stage to share their passion for dance with all of us in the broader arts community.

At Lam Dance Works, we are committed to building bridges and giving back to others through the advocacy and support of brilliant dancers at various stages in their careers and creating spaces where creativity, courage, and connection thrive.

In that spirit, it is fitting we embark on ACT II together at the Robert Orchard Stage, just steps away from the Boston Ballet where I was fortunate to perform for two decades. Lam Dance Works is committed to honoring the iconic artists who have paved the way for all of us while cultivating and nurturing the next generation of dancers and choreographers who will continue to propel our art form.

With your continued support, Lam Dance Works will remain a place where innovation is not only encouraged but ignited. Together, we ask: How can we make an impact? How can we inspire transformation through art? Our hope is that tonight's performance sparks some of those answers within you.

Thank you for being part of this inaugural moment. Here's to new beginnings, bold creations, and the enduring power of dance.

With deep gratitude,

JOHN LAM

Dancers mix of current students and post graduates from Boston
Conservatory at Berklee and Julliard.

A fleeting breath where time dissolves, past and future entwined in now. Footsteps trace the echo of longing—forward, backward, where do we go? Music pulses—urgent, tender—a world reborn in motion's embrace.

"Reflect quiet resilience and movement"

MEET THE FOUNDER

JOHN LAM FOUNDER & ARTISTIC DIRECTOR

John Lam (San Rafael, California) discovered his passion for dance at the age of four at Marin Ballet, setting in motion a lifelong journey of artistry and purpose. Earning a scholarship to Canada's National Ballet School, he honed his craft with discipline and imagination before joining Boston Ballet in 2003. His exceptional talent and expressive range earned him promotion to Soloist in 2008 and Principal Dancer in 2014, as well as the prestigious Princess Grace Fellowship in 2005.

Celebrated by The Boston Globe as one of the company's "most versatile and expressive soloists," Lam has continually expanded the boundaries of dance choreographing award-winning films and creating original works for Ballet Rhode Island, Commonwealth Shakespeare Company and Boston Ballet. His artistry has also reached new audiences through his appearance as a Principal Dancer in Amazon Prime's Étoile.

Lam continues to bring authenticity and passion to his craft as a creative director, dancer, teacher, choreographer, actor, and arts advocate, seamlessly blending creativity and leadership across every facet of his work. Beyond the stage, he earned a Master's in Nonprofit Management and Fundraising from Northeastern University and now serves as Associate Professor of Dance at the Boston Conservatory at Berklee, where he made history by bringing the Dance and Music divisions to Tanglewood for the first time.

A global artist, Lam also stages works internationally for acclaimed choreographer Akram Khan, inspiring dancers worldwide. Above all, he is guided by love, family, and authenticity a proud husband and father of two sons who continues to move through life with grace, artistry, and purpose.

EMPOWERING EDUCATIONAL PARTNERSHIPS

We are overjoyed to have welcomed more than 500 Boston Public School students on November 14, 2025, from grades 5 through 12, to experience the magic of live performance right here on the Robert Orchard Stage. This event was an unforgettable moment that will spark creativity, curiosity, and inspiration in the hearts and minds of these young people.

As a key part of our dedication to education and the arts, we offer live performances for our partner schools, providing students with unique opportunities to connect with the magic of live performance. We collaborate with state officials to identify schools that will benefit from this enriching partnership, ensuring that students from all walks of life can experience the power of art up close and personal in intimate settings.

Lam Dance Works will also facilitate lasting growth through transformative scholarship opportunities for underserved students in the inner city community, where Lam was first identified as an aspiring dancer. This is not just about the performance—it's about opening doors to creativity, expression, and inspiration that will last a lifetime.

We're proud to continue building pathways for future artists and ensuring that all children have access to the transformative power of live performance.
